

LAW No. 05/2005

Foreign Investment Law

The policies set down in the National Development Plan for economic growth and the promotion of the private sector are fundamental vehicles for creating jobs and reducing poverty.

Timor-Leste (East Timor) faces enormous challenges arising from its historical process to gain independence that have affected the majority of its infrastructures and, more importantly, its most valuable assets – such as human resources – thereby drastically reducing the technical and professional capability of the Timorese to independently promote private economic activities to generate wealth and create jobs.

The State must establish the policy conditions needed to improve the country's economic performance by promoting and encouraging foreign investment, which is vital for rebuilding the economic and entrepreneurial sector and for reducing unemployment, deriving the benefits that such investment brings in several areas: technical assistance and vocational training for citizens, industrial development and increased productivity, rehabilitation of economic infrastructures and general progress in the quality of people's lives.

The establishment of a legal framework that attracts and promotes foreign investment in the country is of paramount importance to leverage natural and human resources, create jobs and contribute towards the economic and social development of Timor-Leste.

This law establishes a set of guarantees and incentives for foreign investors, in line with the legislative policies for the sector being followed by many countries, particularly in the Southeast Asian region.

This law aims to play a promoter role while simultaneously serving as a guarantor for foreign investments, whether by citizens or foreign companies, or by the Timorese Diaspora wishing to contribute with their resources from abroad, namely their capital, savings, knowledge or technology to build the national economy and create better living conditions in the Timorese nation.

In this context, the adoption of this system also presumes the need to adjust public administration and its procedures to the law's implementation, with a view to empowering the rights and obligations of investors and foreign investment in the country.

Pursuant to Article 92, Paragraph 1 of the Constitution, the National Parliament hereby decrees the following, which shall have the force of law:
